

The New War

Chapter 1 20 Years Later

It's been a long time since Call has found out that he was the Enemy of Death. After completing his years at the Magisterium he's learned all that he could about magic. He was very good actually, but now he will make his decision about being evil or good. He was forced himself into being good because now he has a wife and two kids. Call married Tamara and had two kids named Drew after an old student from the Magisterium which is now dead. He also had a girl named Katy.

After thinking it over, he felt he should leave the house and start practicing dark magic. He felt he should do that because he clearly can't do it at home. Call knew that dark magic came easy to him so he thought it wouldn't be safe to stay with them. If Call did run away he wouldn't need much practice.

Chapter 2

Running Away

It was mid-night and Call just finished packing up his few things. Lucky for him he knew a spell that can provide food and water for him. He took a small blanket, his phone and 2 pictures. The first picture was him and his father, the other picture was him Tamara, Drew and Katy. Then he left.

About an hour after walking the sky got darker. Out of nowhere a black blur came shooting towards Call. It went straight to him and into him.. Call felt weird, strange, evil. He knew where he was now going, Magisterium. To destroy it, kill every magical human there and capture Rufus.
